

2022 Goat Grazing

The annual Goat Grazing began in March and will continue through approximately July 4, 2022. Here are a few helpful tips to keep in mind while the animals are grazing this season.

- Please keep pets and children away from electrified fencing, herds, shepherds, or shepherds' dogs.
- Please do not place any yard clippings, pesticides, or potted plants in the open areas where herds will be grazing.
- Please be sure to protect any plantings within two feet of fence lines by trimming, moving, or covering.
- Grazing containment fences will be placed near fencing that is adjacent to open spaces. For concerns regarding fencing placement near your property please contact CAPRA directly.

Whitney Oaks Wildlife Notes

Ed Price

Black-tailed jackrabbits are sometimes seen on or near the Whitney Oaks golf course. There is one that makes periodic visits to our backyard. I don't know whether it's a boy or girl since the sexes look alike. This one likes to hang out under our deck. Maybe it feels safe from coyotes. Or maybe it just likes the plants in our backyard. Last spring, we planted several beautiful "Darwin's slippers" in one of our flowerbeds and it wasn't long before Mr. Jackrabbit had eaten them right to the ground. Interestingly, it made no attempt to feast on the New Guinea impatiens and other flowers planted nearby.

Jackrabbits are actually hares, not rabbits. Hares are larger than rabbits, have longer ears and longer legs. Hares are born with fur and with their eyes open while rabbit young are born hairless and with their eyes closed. Young hares are mobile at birth.

The black-tailed jackrabbit is named for a black stripe covering the top of its tail and extending a few inches up its back. It also has black-tipped ears. Except for breeding they live solitary lives. Mating induces ovulation and gestation averages about 45 days. Young, called leverets, are born in a shallow depression scraped out by the female and lined with fur. The mother does not tend the young except for nursing which she terminates at about 8 weeks.

One morning last September I spotted what looked like a rock in the dry grass behind our backyard fence. I retrieved my binoculars and saw that it was our resident jackrabbit crouched down with its body perpendicular to the early morning sun. The underside of our deck must have been too cold. It didn't move while I snapped the photo below.
